IBM Security Solutions

We are IT Security Specialists and have been certified by IBM to work with their newly formed Security division, offering the most comprehensive and class leading security solutions available on the market. This builds upon recent acquisitions by IBM to create a portfolio of security solutions that can help organisations of any size protect their IT environment, their data, their employees and, perhaps most importantly, their reputation.

Eurotech recognises the increasing threat to our customers from cyberspace and the devastating effect a security breach can have. The threats have increased in terms of complexity, scale, frequency and determination which have led to them becoming ever more difficult to protect against. IBM's security solutions can protect against all threats but are modular in nature to allow you to pick the elements most critical to you and build out as dictated by need and budget. A single pane of management also means that your administration overhead decreases.
